To find these ads, I went through all of the video, image, and HTML files to see which files are associated with ads. Also, for some files I would check the URL and see if it had ad in the URL.

Reasons for failing to replay ads:

3 ad containers would sometimes switch to ads that used safeframe URLs.

Around 3 or more locations where ads are loaded. The amount of sponsored Facebook post ads can vary each time we reload the web page.

There are around 24 ads archived for this web page. The ad URLs are in the comments below.

- > 8 sponsored Facebook Post ads
- > 13 combination ads
- > 3 possible ads

To find these ads, I went through all of the video, image, and HTML files to see which files are associated with Facebook's CDN "fbcdn.net". Also, replayed the archived web page multiple times to distinguish between the images used for a sponsored Facebook post ad and a combination ad.

Number of ads that failed to replay: 1

The video for one of the sponsored Facebook post ads did not play.

ReplayWeb.page loaded 6 sponsored Facebook post ads (the number of ads shown during replay is not consistent):

Video: <https://youtu.be/9nRtnhkYyDI>

4 locations where ads are loaded.

There are around 6 ads archived for this web page. The ad URLs are in the comments below.

> 3 embedded web page ads

> 1 video ad

> 2 image ads

To find these ads, I went through all of the video and HTML files and check some of the image files to see which files are associated with ads.

For the image files, I checked for s0.2mdn.net and tpc.googlesyndication.com/simgad since these CDNs are normally used when loading safeframe URLs and all of the ad containers on this web page used safeframes.

May need to go through the WARC file with a script that can detect the other image ads.

When using pywb no ads were successfully replayed.

When using OpenWayback, the ad URLs were not rewritten and live leaks occurred.

ReplayWeb.page also could not replay any ads, because safeframes were used to load the ads.

> I decided to use this replay system for this example, since it was possible to view the ads after manually updating the safeframe URL

The ads did not load in ReplayWeb.page, because a Safeframe iframe was used to load the ads.

The ads were archived, but it was not replayed because safeframe was used for all ads.

All of the .ts files are not associated with ads.

ReplayWeb.page started repeating the same URLs after I went through all of the URLs for the HTML file type.

- > Combination ad (image and some text) on the right side of the video above the recommended videos

1 ad archived for this web page. The ad URL is in the comment below.

- > 1 combination ad

To find these ads, I went through all of the video, image and HTML files and checked to see which files are associated with ads.

When pywb is used in Chrome it can replay the YouTube video and one of the ads successfully.

* It failed to replay the web page when used in Firefox, because of a theme refresh (switching to dark mode)

OpenWayback also failed to handle the theme refresh issue. It seems like the web page will add &themeRefresh=1 to the end of the URL and then reload the web page. This prevents pywb and OpenWayback from replaying the web page successfully when dark mode is used for Firefox.

* The video also does not play when using OpenWayback

When using ReplayWeb.page it was able to successfully replay the web page in both browsers and could handle the theme refresh.
